He Outlines Scheme for Exhibit of with popular airs. Various Products of Country on by the Federal Government,

Elaborate plans for the beautification of the city has been received by the Com- Temple, missioners from John H. Nelson, 1829 Monroe street, who advocated the setting aside by the national government of a building site for each State, whereon magnificent State buildings can be erected. These buildings would not only pro vide assemblage places for visitors, but would permit of a permanent exhibit of various products of the separate States. While the Commissioners do not feel that it is within their power to take any action, they have perused the communication with much interest and hope that something practical will be accomplished. Mr. Nelson's letter follows: Benefit to States.
